

Global Connections' International Speakers Program Brings the World to You!

Expand your world

Global Connections' International Speakers Program brings people from other countries to schools and civic groups to share their culture in dynamic and interactive ways. Speakers are community members, Penn State students, faculty and staff trained by Global Connections to provide age-appropriate presentations for diverse audiences.

International speakers invite adult audiences to:

- Understand the experiences of internationals in local settings such as health care, the university and the community.
- Explore global issues through the experiences of those who experience them first hand.
- Build cultural understanding and diversity in the workplace.

Explore diversity, practice hospitality

International presenters have much to teach, but the lessons go far beyond the topic at hand. By engaging with people of other countries, languages and cultures, we all learn to be better citizens of the world.

Request a speaker

Please contact us at least 3 – 4 weeks before your event. There is no charge to schools and social service organizations. Visit www.gg-cc.org to download a Speaker Request Form.
